Red Nose Day

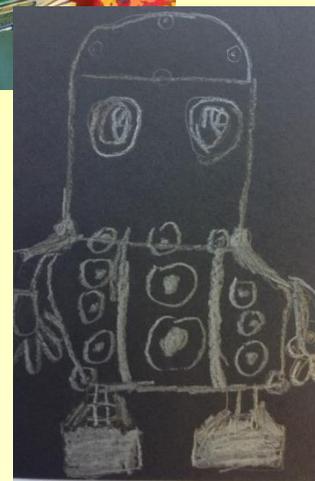

This year, red nose day is on the 15th March

We are hoping to have red noses available at the front office to buy for £1.25 and we have an exciting activity planned for lunchtime involving soggy sponges!

School View

Year 3

The children have been reading the book 'Iron Man' by Ted Hughes and have drawn pictures based on what they have read so far. In maths, they have been using multiplication to upscale and downscale numbers – they have even measured their heads to calculate how big their heads would be if they were twice the size!

Information

As you may have noticed, we have had a lovely new path put in over half term. We are grateful that our parents have been so patient and understanding as we worked hard to resolve the issue.

Huge thanks to Ben Smith's dad who helped us out with the barriers that we needed until the path had been replaced. Without generous donations like that, it would have taken us many more months before we were able to afford the repair.

Thank You!

Thanks to Troy and his dad for helping to install the greenhouse (funded from our movie nights) over the holidays.

Thanks to Mr Wilson for pruning our trees and bushes in the science garden.

We are very grateful for the assistance provided- it makes such a difference!

World Book Day

On the 7th March children can bring their favourite book into school and talk to their class about the story and why it is their favourite book.

Book Bus

The book bus will be visiting school on the 5th March. It will be open for a short time before and after school for any parents who want to visit, and children can bring money into school to buy their own books.

Grandparent's Lunch

We will be having a grandparent lunch on the 22nd of March. Letters with meal choices have been sent home, but we need to request that all bookings are made before 8th March.
